STATEMENT OF FACTS

22. All Plaintiffs performed substantially similar duties.

23. Plaintiffs at all relevant times were covered employees within the meaning of the FLSA and NYLL.

24. Plaintiff Castro's employment began in or about 2008. He was and continues to be employed as a busboy.

25. Plaintiff Castro's regular work schedule varied. He typically worked 6 days per week. A typical schedule for him would be something like the following: Monday 5pm-2am, Tuesday 5pm-9pm, Thursday –Saturday 5pm-3am and Sunday 4pm-1am. He worked mostly night shifts.

26. Plaintiff Castro estimates that he averaged about 56 hours per week, until about one year ago when he began averaging about 51 hours per week.

27. Plaintiff Castro routinely worked more than 40 hours per week and routinely had workweeks with workshifts that exceeded 10 hours per day.

28. Plaintiff Vasquez's employment began about 12 years ago. He was employed as a busboy.

29. Plaintiff Vasquez's regular work schedule varied. In the beginning of the employment he typically worked from 11am to 9pm, six days per week.

30. Starting about four years ago, this changed so that he was typically working from 7am to 4pm, four days per week, and a fifth day (usually Fridays) from 7am to 5pm.

31. Defendants paid Plaintiffs a day-rate as a base wage, and allowed Plaintiff to receive a share of a tip pool.

32. Defendants never provided Plaintiffs with a notice or other document concerning their intention to take a tip credit.

33. Plaintiff routinely worked more than 40 hours per week and routinely had workweeks with workshifts that exceeded 10 hours per day.

34. Defendants has a policy of not monitoring or recording the actual hours worked by Plaintiffs and other employees.

35. Upon information and belief, until the present, Defendants charged customers a gratuity on all bills and catered events.

36. Upon information and belief, until the present, Defendants engaged in a policy and practice of failing to properly remit the gratuity to Plaintiffs, in violation of NYLL Article 6 § 196-d and the cases interpreting the same.

37. Plaintiffs were required to perform job duties for which customers do not regularly tip or leave a gratuity. This included for Plaintiff Vasquez this included sweeping the floors everyday and cleaning the bathroom every shift (two times per shift). This included for Plaintiff Santos cleaning the bathroom every shift, at least once and usually twice; and occasionally cleaning the outside of the establishment, including sweeping garbage from the outside floor.

38. Plaintiffs were required to prior to their scheduled start time, and help with stocking items in the diner, including ketchup, milk, coffee, sugar, salt and pepper, sour cream, napkins, cups, silverware, etc. This would usually take between 5 and 15 minutes.

39. Plaintiffs were required to work past the end of their scheduled workshift because they were required to finish clearing all of their assigned tables before leaving, and on a routine basis, this meant that they had to work 15 to 30 minutes past the end of their scheduled workshift. Also they would have to stay past their schedule end time on occasions in order to cover for an employee who was arriving late for the next shift or who called out of work.

40. Plaintiffs did not receive a regularly scheduled and uninterrupted meal break or rest breaks as required by the New York Labor Law.

41. At no point did Defendants inform Plaintiffs of the minimum wage or overtime provisions of the FLSA or the NYLL.

42. Defendants knowingly and willfully operated their business with a policy of not paying Plaintiffs and other similarly situated employees either the federal or New York State minimum wage, the FLSA overtime rate (of time and one-half), and the New York State overtime rate (of time and one-half), in direct violation of the FLSA and New York Labor Law and the supporting federal and New York State Department of Labor Regulations.

43. Defendants knowingly and willfully operate their business with a policy of not paying Plaintiffs and other similarly situated employees "spread of hours" premium for each day that they work a shift in excess of ten (10) hours, in direct violation of the New York Labor Law and the supporting New York State Department of Labor Regulations.

44. Defendants did not furnish Plaintiffs with an accurate statement with every payment of wages, listing gross wages, deductions and net wages as required by New York Labor Law § 195.

45. Defendants failed to display, in a place accessible to employees and in a visually conspicuous manner, the notice of employee rights to receive the minimum wage and overtime pay at a rate of one and one-half times their regular rate as required under the New York Labor Law.

46. Defendants failed to display, in a place accessible to employees and in a visually conspicuous manner a copy of New York Labor Law § 193 regarding the prohibition on illegal deductions from wages.

47. Defendants failed to provide written notice concerning the terms of a commission program under which employees were eligible to receive commissions.

48. There is no written contract or other written document, signed or otherwise, reflecting the terms of the commissions program offered and administered by Defendants.

COLLECTIVE ACTION ALLEGATIONS

49. Plaintiffs bring this action individually and as class representative on behalf of the "Proposed FLSA Collective" defined as:

all current and former employees of Defendants for the three year period prior to the filing of the complaint.

50. Upon information and belief, the total number of members of the proposed collective action class is so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable. Although the precise number of such persons is unknown, and the facts upon which the calculation of that number are presently within the sole control of the Defendants, upon information and belief, there are more than fifty (50) Collective Action Members who worked for the Defendants during the Collective Action Period, most of whom would not be likely to file individual suits because they lack adequate financial resources, access to attorneys, or knowledge of their claims. Therefore, Plaintiffs submit that this matter should be certified as a collective action under the FLSA, 29 U.S.C. § 216(b).

51. Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the Collective Action Members and have retained counsel that is experienced and competent in the fields of employment law and class action litigation. Plaintiffs have no interests that are contrary to or in conflict with those members of this collective action.

52. This action should be certified as a collective action because the prosecution of separate actions by individual members of the class would create a risk of either inconsistent or varying adjudications with respect to individual members of the class, or adjudications with respect to individual members of the class that would as a practical matter be dispositive of the interests of the other members not parties to the adjudication, or substantially impair or impede their ability to protect their interests.

53. A collective action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of this controversy, since joinder of all members is impracticable. Furthermore, inasmuch as the damages suffered by individual Collective Action Members may be relatively small, the expense and burden of individual litigation make it virtually impossible for the members of the collective action to individually seek redress for the wrongs done to them. There will be no difficulty in the management of this action as a collective action.

54. Questions of law and fact common to the members of the collective action predominate over questions that may affect only individual members because Defendants have acted on grounds generally applicable to all members. Among the common questions of law and fact common to Plaintiffs and other Collective Action Members are:

- a. Whether the Defendants employed Plaintiffs and the Collective Action Members within the meaning of the FLSA;
 - b. Whether the Defendants failed to keep true and accurate time and pay records for all hours worked by Plaintiffs and the Collective Action Members;
 - c. What proof of hours worked is sufficient where the employer fails in its duty to maintain time records;
 - d. Whether the Defendants' violations of the FLSA are willful as that term is used within the context of the FLSA; and,
 - e. Whether the Defendants are liable for all damages claimed hereunder, including but not limited to compensatory, liquidated and statutory damages, interest, attorneys' fees, and costs and disbursements.
 - f. Whether the Defendants failed to pay Plaintiffs and the Collective Action Members minimum wages for all hours worked; and
 - g. Whether the Defendants failed to pay Plaintiffs and the Collective Action Members for hours worked in excess of 40 hours per workweek.
55. Plaintiffs know of no difficulty that will be encountered in the management of this litigation that would preclude its maintenance as a collective action.
56. Plaintiffs and others similarly situated have been substantially damaged by the Defendants' wrongful conduct.

CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

57. Plaintiffs sue on their own behalf and on behalf of a class of persons under Rules 23(a), (b)(2), and (b)(3) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

58. In addition to bringing this action as a proposed collective action to remedy violations of the FLSA, Plaintiffs also bring this action on behalf of a “Proposed Rule 23 Class”, under Rules 23(a), (b)(2), and (b)(3) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, and consisting of:

all current and former employees of Defendants during the six year period prior to the filing of the complaint.

59. Upon information and belief, the persons in the Proposed Class are so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable. Although the identity and precise number of such persons is unknown, and the facts upon which the calculation of that number may be ascertained are presently within the sole control of the Defendants, the Proposed Class consists of all non-managerial current and former employees and, therefore, is so numerous that joinder is impracticable and most of whom would not be likely to file individual suits because they lack financial resources, access to attorneys, or knowledge of their claims.

60. The claims of Plaintiffs are typical of the claims of the Proposed Class, and a Rule 23 class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of the controversy, particularly in the context of wage and hour litigation, where individuals lack the financial resources to vigorously prosecute a lawsuit in federal court against a corporate defendant.

61. The Defendants have acted on grounds generally applicable to the Proposed Class, thereby making appropriate final injunctive relief or corresponding declaratory relief with respect to the Proposed Class as a whole.

62. Plaintiffs have committed themselves to pursuing this action and has retained counsel experienced in employment law and class action litigation.

63. Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the Proposed Class. Plaintiffs understand that, as a class representatives, they assume a fiduciary responsibility to the Class Members to represent their interests fairly and adequately, and that they must consider their interests just as he would represent and consider their own interests, and that they may not favor their own interests over those of the Class Members.

64. Plaintiffs recognize that any resolution of a Rule 23 class action lawsuit, including any settlement or dismissal thereof, must be in the best interests of the Class. Plaintiffs understand that in order to provide adequate representation, they must remain informed of litigation developments and that they may be called upon to testify in depositions and at trial.

65. Plaintiffs have the same interests in this matter as all other members of the Proposed Class, and Plaintiffs' claims are typical of the Proposed Class.

66. There are questions of law and fact common to the Proposed Class which predominate over any questions solely affecting the individual members of the Proposed Class, including but not limited to:

- a. Whether the Defendants employed Plaintiffs and the Class members within the meaning of the New York Labor Law;
- b. Whether the Defendants failed to keep true and accurate time and pay records for all hours worked by Plaintiffs and the Class members;
- c. What proof of hours worked is sufficient where the employer fails in its duty to maintain time records;

Whether the Defendants failed to pay Plaintiffs and the Class members the applicable minimum wage for all straight time hours worked and the required overtime compensation for all hours worked in excess of forty (40) hours per workweek, in violation of the New York Labor Law and the regulations promulgated thereunder;

- d. Whether the Defendants failed to pay Plaintiffs and the Class members "spread of hours" premium for each day they worked a shift in excess of ten (10) hours, in violation of the New York Labor Law and the regulations promulgated thereunder;

- e. Whether Defendants' violations of the New York Labor Law are willful as that term is used within the context of the New York Labor Law; and,
- f. Whether Defendants are liable for all damages claimed hereunder, including but not limited to compensatory, liquidated and statutory damages, interest, costs, attorneys' fees, and costs and disbursements.
